

Endura SingleTrack Windproof £29.99

SO GOOD... While they feel a little stiff when new, the fit and feel on the grips of the Endura gloves is the best on test. The supple synthetic-leather palm is extremely comfortable and tactile, creating a feeling almost like riding without gloves. Hands are kept warm in nippy air by the windproof and lightly insulated back/top. The wrist closure is neat, and construction quality appears very good.

NO GOOD... Perhaps unsurprisingly given the 'Windproof' name, they're not as warm or grippy when wet as the 100% Briskers. They don't work with touchscreens, so it's harder to call your other half to warn them that your ride's running late again.
