It's the chamois pad that should be making the news with these bibshorts, but I'll start with the hems and leg grippers which have the welcome feel of compression shorts and stay in place superbly. The shorts are available in three different pad sizes, depending on the width of your sit bones and saddle, and I found the chamois to be the most comfortable on test. Longer leg options are also available. The bibs are a highly breathable mesh, and the shorts have UPF50+ sun protection. My favourite pair on test, no question.
