

Endura FS260-Pro Adrenaline Race Cape

£60

Nylon, fully seam-sealed and with a small stuff sack, this cape's standout feature is the lightly padded collar, which has a gentle stretch panel and felt agreeably warm, not suffocating. The back of the jacket has a small panel on which the manufacturer has printed its claims of waterproofing (15,000mm – meaning rainproof and waterproof except under high pressure) and breathability (20,000 grams per square metre over a 24-hour period, meaning relatively breathable). It certainly stood up well on a showery Sunday ride, as you'd expect from a company that develops its products in Scotland. Looks really smart too, in a fetching shade of green.
