

Endura MT500 £199.99

Endura's MT500 comes with all the details but manages not to feel overbuilt or fussy. Immediately noticeable is the extra-high collar, soft lined for comfort and incorporating the fastening for a roll-down hood that itself has multiple adjustment points. The fit is roomy and, with stretch fabric where you need it across the shoulders, there's no limit on freedom of movement. We especially like the cuffs, which have snug elastic inners and adjustment on the outer shell. The construction and long length of the double-ended vents makes them fully adjustable, even when wearing a pack. Both a lens wipe and lift pass holder are included. The skinny of hip will find the cut of the hem generous and need to make full use of the drawcord, but otherwise there's nothing not to like here.
